Baltimore Boys Score Six Points to Our Seventeen—The Georgetown Game.

The bunch of noble athletes representing George Washington University secured an easy victory over University of Maryland yesterday evening by a score of 17 to 6.

This score hardly tells the true story of the game, for our men played rings around their visitors. Never once was our goal in danger from advances of the Maryland boys, the touchdown they gained having been secured by catching one of our forward passes in the center of the field and crossing our goal line before any of the George Washington eleven could stop the runner.

The Hatchettes at last exhibited the dash and vim which has always been there but never developed. Forward passes, end runs, line bucks and quick work were prevalent throughout the contest and our line was a stone wall on defense. All the team showed up excellently, the shift of Gunning and Witten, in particular, producing decisive results. While some of the men were a little unsteady, and the passing of the ball a little slow, the team as a whole fully justified the confidence placed in it by its loyal supporters.

Craft was the bright individual star, securing two of the touchdowns by brilliant work, in following and running the ball. Sommers, Gunning, White, Alston,

PROFESSOR HONORED.

At the National Conference on Trusts, Chicago, October 25, 1907, one of the most significant addresses delivered was that by Prof. James Howard Gore, of this University, whose subject was "The Relation of Industrial Combinations to Export Trade." This address is printed in extenso in the University Bulletin for October, 1907, and will repay careful perusal by those interested in current economic questions.

Prof. James Howard Gore was born in Frederick County, Va., Sept. 18, 1856, and received his early education at Richmond College, Va., 1874-77. He received his B. S. degree from Columbian University (now George Washington University), where he also took the Ph. D. degree in 1878. He was U. S. Commissioner-General to the International Expositions at Antwerp, Amsterdam, Brussels, St. Louis and Liege. At the Paris Exposition in 1900 he was Juror-in-Chief, and he has been decorated by Belgium, Bulgaria, Holland, France, Siam, and Sweden. At present, he is compiling a directory of American citizens who have been decorated. He is Professor of Mathematics, George Washington University; Secretary of the American Meteorological Society, member of the Cosmos Club, and author of many works, particularly on mathematics and geodesy.

ROOTERS' CLUB.

The membership of the Rooters' Club to date is as follows:

1. E. P. Gates, College, '08; Law, '10.

7. Detlef H. Schultz, Law, '10.
8. Roy Newhauser, College, '09.
9. Robert Fleming, College, '08.
10. W. P. Wood, Medical, '09.

The list is slowly, but surely growing and there is no question but that the limit of thirty will be reached in a short time. There is but one condition of membership: Attendance at every game until Thanksgiving.

There are many good G. W. U. songs and yells which have never been published, or otherwise widely circulated. If you know of any such, send them to The Hatchet office at once, so that they may be printed in the Special Song and Yell edition next week.

POLITICAL SCIENCE

NEW COLLEGE ORGANIZES.

Addresses by Faculty—Large Registration—Second Meeting Thursday.

A meeting was held Thursday night in University Hall of the entire faculty and student-body of the new College of the Political Sciences. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the plans of the College for the immediate future, and to give the students an opportunity to form a student organization. Among the members of the faculty present were Justices Harlan and Brewer, John Ball Osborne, Chief of the Bureau of Trade Relations; Oscar P. Austin, President Needham, and Professors Swisher, Willoughby, Veditz, Lorenzen, Manning, McBain and Peake.

After a few introductory remarks Dr. Veditz called upon Justice Harlan "as the oldest member of the faculty" for an expression of his attitude toward the new College. Justice Harlan spoke of the great growth of this country, both in its internal administrative work and its outward diplomatic and commercial relations, and emphasized the great need of specially trained men to handle the ever-multiplying affairs of government. He pointed out the practical advantages to be derived from studying such subjects in Washington, and assured the new department of his hearty support. Denying with an almost feminine grace the attribute of "oldest member," he tendered that distinction to "Brother" Brewer.

Justice Brewer jokingly replied that "Brother" Harlan was "often as mistaken in his facts as he is in his interpretation of the Constitution." He illustrated the enormous complexity which our governmental machinery has assumed by saying that while the bills before Congress during the session of 1860 numbered approximately 10,000, they numbered about 30,000 the last session. He spoke of the danger to a government should it merely drift along, saying that although up to the present century we had been greatly assisted by Providence, the time had arrived when we must help ourselves, and to do this rightly we must have men who know the sort of help to give.

President Needham gave a sketch of the old Department of Comparative Jurisprudence and Diplomacy, and declared his utmost confidence in the future of the new institution.

Mr. Charles Ray Dean, a graduate of the old department, spoke with gratitude of the advantages he had derived from that department, and welcomed the advent of the new school. He introduced

Mr. Hill, Consul General to St. Petersburg.

Mr. Hill's remarks were brief and to the point. Concerning the consular service he asserted that "Americans have, as a rule, possessed the ability. What they lacked was the special training."

Professor Swisher spoke of the dominating influence of American history on other world powers, and of the desirability of perpetuating that influence through the medium of men highly instructed in history and statecraft, especially American history.

Professor Willoughby gave a short though interesting description of the legislative reference bureaus established in quite a number of the States, and increasing in importance, employing men skilled in the technique of bill drafting, appraisal and use of sociological information, and in work of an advisory nature, strong evidence of the desire on the part of State authorities to utilize the services of highly specialized men.

This series of informal talks was closed by Dr. Richard D. Harlan, who is expected to supply the sineys of education for the new College. Dr. Harlan compared the birth of the College to that of the Paris School, and that of the London School, which he briefly described, and expressed an earnest hope for like results in Washington.

Dean Veditz then made some announcements relative to the new school. He reported that the enrollment was 43, and this would soon be increased to 50. Of the 43 registered 19 are candidates for the B. A., 10 for the Master of Diplomacy degree, and 14 are specials, of which several intend to become regulars. Harvard, Boston, Amherst, Georgetown, Northwestern, Cornell, Wisconsin, Williamette, Virginia, Michigan, Paris, and Costa Rica, are represented by student graduates here. The distribution is pretty general throughout the States, and there are students from Germany, England, Costa Rica and Siam.

The meeting then closed, and the hall was left to the students for the purpose of discussing plans for a permanent organization. Mr. C. W. Tenney was appointed temporary chairman. A general discussion was held as to whether the new College should form a distinctive social organization, or add another debating society to the University. Invitations were extended to the College to join a debating society now forming in Columbian College; consideration of which was postponed. The suggestion of Mr. Ely that the College form an organization was followed by his appointment, together with Messrs. S. T. Bowen and O. E. Mueller on a committee to draft plans which are to be reported at a meeting to be held next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the University building, at which all students of the College of the Political Sciences, both male and female, are earnestly requested to be present.

NEEDHAM DEBATING SOCIETY.

The Needham met in the University Hall at 8:15 Friday evening. The question for debate was Resolved, That a 'whipping post' should be established in the District of Columbia for 'wife beaters' and other crimes and misdemeanors." Messrs. Ambrose and Nyemaster represented the affirmative, and Kennedy and Jones the negative.

Messrs. Davis, Betts and Spinks acted as judges. During their absence from the room a brisk general discussion was indulged in under the three-minute rule. The judges rendered their decision for the affirmative, and gave the honors to Messrs. Nyemaster and Kennedy. Mr. Kennedy having won honors in a previous debate was ineligible and the judges will select an honor man later to take his place.

It was decided that hereafter there should be four members on the debates instead of six, and that the time for general discussion should be extended to five minutes. Under the former rule when six men had spoken, each man having a rebuttal speech, the time for adjournment had come and the other members of the society had not had opportunity to speak on the question. Under the new plan each man will have five minutes for general discussion, and thus the ability to speak extempore will be developed.

It was also voted that in the future questions would be proposed by the members, such questions to be subject to the consideration and revision of the executive committee, the member proposing the same to have opportunity of volunteering on the debate, provided his position thereon would not interfere with the regular turn of another member who has not had opportunity of competing for honors.

The question for debate for Friday evening, November 8th, will be "Resolved, That a system of ship subsidies should be established by the United States Government for the merchant marine." Affirmative, Spinks and Nyemaster; negative, Sunderlin and Cutler.

The University Hall is the regular meeting place of the Needham Society, and if this hall is in use by the University authorities, the Society will meet in West Hall.

COLUMBIAN DEBATING SOCIETY.

Report of Meeting Held November 2.

President McClellan called the meeting to order at 8:15 p. m. The following names were proposed for membership and their owners unanimously elected: Messrs. Oberlin, Hupper, Simpson and Whiting. The question of the evening, "Resolved That the United States should sell the Philippine Islands to Great Britain or Japan, or any other responsible nation," was then debated.

Mr. Couden as critic spoke of the fact that debaters often in the heat of the argument unwarrant-

There were thirty-five members present at the debate. It is hoped that this average attendance will continue throughout the school year.

EXCHANGE NOTES.

The trustees of Swarthmore College are receiving advice from all over the country as to the settlement of the problem that has arisen over the bequest of Miss Jeanes, who has willed the College several millions on condition that it give up inter-collegiate athletics. The College body is reported to be a unit in favoring a refusal of the gift. The trustees are said to be divided, the prospect of several millions additional endowment being a temptation to those who have the College finances in charge. The report of the trustees on this matter in December will be awaited with much interest.

The General Council of Phi Beta Kappa have granted charters to the Universities of Michigan, Illinois, Virginia, and Ohio Wesleyan University.

Walter Eckersall, probably the greatest quarterback the game has ever seen, is writing football articles for a Chicago paper.

Control of athletics has been reorganized at Michigan, so that the athletic party is again in power. Students are expecting a return to the long football schedule and to other features of inter-collegiate athletics which have been abandoned.

On October 31, Hon. James Bryce dedicated at Princeton the copy of the famous Turnbull sundial at Oxford, England, which was the gift of Sir William Mathew, M. P., to Princeton.

Lacrosse has been revived among the Eastern Universities and Syracuse is agitating the project of a league to be formed among New York and New England Colleges.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1907.

Prominent among the numerous gifts which the University has received during the past year is the Hubbard Memorial prize in American History, recently founded by Mrs. Gardner M. Hubbard, as reported in The Hatchet of October 23d. In another column of this issue we print the resolutions recently adopted by the trustees, expressing the gratitude of the University for this most timely endowment.

The prize, which is the income from one thousand dollars, is to be awarded annually to that student of the graduating class of Columbian College who, during the four years' college course, shall attain the highest standing in American history.

Gifts of this sort are extremely valuable, not only intrinsically but as indications of the growing confidence in which the University is held among the general public. The Hatchet congratulates the Department of History on this recent acquisition.

It is with great pleasure that The Hatchet announces the birth of an assistant business manager. Miss Allis will probably matriculate at George Washington about 1925.

The editor of The Hatchet has been approached by several students inquiring as to the possibility of forming a Glee Club. Such an organization is needed and should be started. While the editor is not himself a songster he will gladly act as a means of communication between those who have aspirations in that direction. State your views on a piece of paper and "drop it in a Hatchet Box."

There have been many students this year, we believe, who have regretted deeply the necessity of purchasing text books from a firm which refuses to support the University paper. For this reason we are glad to announce that the necessity no longer exists. The Hatchet now counts among its advertisers one of the most prominent book dealers in Washington. He will be glad to supply at any time any text book desired.

In the matter of law books the students' interests have been well taken care of from the first. The same is now true of text books in general.

SPECIAL SONG AND YELL NUMBER.

A large portion of the next issue of The Hatchet will be devoted to the songs and yells of the University. Let every loyal son and daughter of old G. W. get a copy and learn these songs and shrieks. Some of them are new. Some are old and familiar. All are good to know and good to use. Don't fail to get The Hatchet next week.

UNIVERSITY BULLETIN.

One of the most interesting and instructive numbers of the University Bulletin yet issued has just made its appearance. Although entitled the "Faculty of Graduate Studies Number," it is by no means limited to abstracts of these for higher degrees. Extracts are given from Chancellor Andrews' speech at the Fall Convocation. Dean Vance's interesting address on "Legal Education in the South," and Professor Gore's speech on "Industrial Combinations," are printed in full. Other articles of interest are:

"The Kantian Basis of Agnosticism," by James MacBride Sterrett.

"The Limitations of Language in the Expression of Truth," by George Lansing Raymond.

"Pausanias: A Second Century Baedeker," by Mitchell Carroll.

"Notes on Some Seventeenth Century Use of Words in French," by George N. Henning.

"Notes on the Style of Seneca the Philosopher," by Charles Sidney Smith.

"Late Seventeenth Century Comedy," by DeWitt C. Croissant.

NOTICE.

A meeting of the Sophomore Class of the College will be held in Room 26, Wednesday, November 6th, at 7 o'clock. As the momentous question of the dance will arise it is necessary that every Sophomore attend.

HUBBARD PRIZE.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the generous offer of Mrs. Gertrude M. Hubbard of one thousand dollars to be invested and known as the Gardiner G. Hubbard Memorial Prize in American History in The George Washington University, the income to be awarded annually to the student in undergraduate work who maintains throughout four years the highest standing in this subject, the standing to be determined by grades in the classes and essays upon assigned topics in American History, is accepted upon the conditions and terms named.

Resolved, That the trustees hereby tender to Mrs. Hubbard their sincere thanks for this generous gift, which is all the more highly prized because associated with the name of her late husband, Gardiner G. Hubbard, who was for many years an honored and influential member of this Board.

Resolved, That the President is hereby directed to forward to Mrs. Hubbard a copy of these resolutions.

In a volume on the "Mineral Resources of Virginia" prepared as a memoir of the Jamestown Exposition, and just issued by the Virginia Geological Survey, Dr. R. S. Bassler, Assistant Professor of Geology, has an extended article on the geology and stratigraphy, and the non-metallic minerals of the State. Professor Bassler has spent his summers during the past four years in a detailed study of the complicated stratigraphy of Appalachian Virginia, and the results of this work are given in this volume. All the minerals of any economic importance are touched upon and numerous cuts and structure sections illustrating the occurrence and genesis of the more important materials are included.

"The next best thing to being witty one's-self, is to be able to quote another's wit."—Bovee.

It is the intention of The Hatchet to devote this page in the first issue of each month to a selection of extracts from college papers, illustrative of college humor. This humor is growing in popularity, as shown by the many clippings from college 'funny papers' seen in periodicals. One of its most frequent manifestations takes the shape of a verse, usually four lines, which recounts the impish pranks of a child with the consequences thereof. This is sometimes called the "Little Willie" rhyme and is, after all, only the college equivalent for the "Katzenjammer Kids" and the other heroes of the colored supplement. In this collection we have tried to credit all specimens, both old and new, to original sources, not because we are conscientious, or even reasonably honest, but because we do not wish The Hatchet to be accused of having perpetrated them.

COLUMBIAN COLLEGE

On Friday afternoon, November 8, at Van Ness Park, the event which the College has been patiently awaiting will at last occur. Thus far the "Frosh." and "Sophs." have confined themselves to glaring at each other and saying bad words in their posters. On Friday, however, the actual meeting will occur and the supremacy of the two under classes will be fought out once and for all. It is reported that both sides have been doing considerable practice, but because of the diffidence of the young warriors it has been impossible to obtain much reliable information on the subject. Every student of the College should remember to be on hand when the "Frosh." and "Sophs." come together next Friday.

ENOSINIAN.

The Enosinian Society of Columbian College held its regular meeting on Friday, November 1, in Room 26 of the University building. The question for debate was, "Resolved, That the products of prison labor should be denied the privileges of interstate commerce." The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. Berry, Marsh and Waterman, while Messrs. Schreiber, Brown and Gates maintained the negative. The judges, Messrs. C. N. Marsh, Herndon and Marye, rendered a decision in favor of the affirmative. The vote of the Society, however, resulted in a tie. The election of officers, which the Society had postponed at its first meeting, was completed and the following officers elected: Sergeant-at-arms, Mr. R. DeS. Brown; Second Editor of the Bee, Mr. Herndon, and Second Editor of the News, M. C. W. Marsh. Mr. C. N. Marsh and Mr. Herndon were initiated into membership.

The members of the College should not forget that on Friday evening, November 15, the Freshmen will inaugurate the class dances with their annual dance. This will be held in the parlors of the Woman's Building and promises to more than maintain the high standard of the "Frosh." dances in the past.

Thanks to the new regime in the library the students of the College who so desire may use the reading room for purposes of study.

The local chapter of Sigma Kappa celebrated that most weird and mystical of evenings, Halloween, by entertaining a party of its friends at the home of Miss Harrington. The car ride, the walk along the country road and the bountiful supper eaten in true informal Halloween style were some of the details of a delightful evening. A contest in stunts, an old-fashioned donkey party, the initiation of some of those present into the awful rites of a new and hitherto unknown society and a number of rousing college songs brought the party to an hour where prudence and the chaperones bade the saying of a reluctant good-night.

The Senior Class of Columbian College and the Washington College of Engineering held its first meeting on Thursday evening, October 19th, in Room 26 of the University Building. The purpose of the meeting was to form the class organization for the ensuing year and to elect the regular class officers. The meeting was called to order by Mr. J. Frank Seiler, the president of the Junior Class last year, who made a few remarks and suggestions in the nature of a farewell address before he opened the regular business of the evening. As a result of the election the officers for the present year are as follows: President, Mr. Wm. C. Van Vleck; Vice-President, Miss Jane Mahan; Secretary, Miss Jessamine E. Swartwout; Treasurer, Mr. Robert Fleming, and Editor for the Annual, Mr. J. Frank Seiler. The officers for class night and the business which the class has to transact in regard to the Senior dance were postponed until the next meeting.

SOPHOMORES.

Where are the Sophomores?
Where is the class spirit of 1910?

The answer to the second may help to solve the mystery of the first. To all appearances the class spirit of the Sophomores is a minus quantity. Of course there are still a few who faithfully attend class meetings.

We hold an election. Does the class turn out in a body to vote? Well, hardly, unless the class roll includes but 12 members. We were unfortunate this year in losing several of our members. But the loss of half a dozen neither accounts for nor excuses the rest.

Now we want a class and want it badly. Soon the question will be "When does the Sophomore dance come off." The Freshmen have taken the initiative and are going to give a dance. The same is expected of the Sophomores. But there can be nothing done without money (it has been tried before) and there can be no money without a class. You ask what is the remedy? Simply this—turn out in full numbers at the meeting Wednesday night.

Show your class spirit and don't let those green Freshmen get ahead of you.

DIVISION OF ARCHITECTURE.

The enrollment of students in this Department of the University promises this year to considerably exceed former years; there will be nearly fifty students when all registrations are completed, according to present indications.

The new building on I street is commodious, the draughting rooms being well lighted. All the offices of the Professors, the Library and club room are located in the building. Judging from the interest shown and the attractiveness of the subjects being taught, the year will be very prosperous.

One of the classes accompanied Professor Ash and examined the construction of the New Masonic Temple. This is a feature of the course which is both interesting and instructive. Seventeen men recently submitted to the Beaux-Arts Society, New York, sketches in the first Esquisse of the year.

The G. W. U. Architectural Club, composed of students of the Division of Architecture, held its meeting Monday evening, the 28th ult., and elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

President—L. P. Wagner.
Vice-President—R. W. Geare.
Treasurer—W. A. Knowles.
Secretary—H. N. MacAuley.
Executive Committee—H. T. Dysland, G. F. Galloway, C. R. Lombard.

Many important matters were acted upon, one of which was the appointing of a committee to carry out plans for furnishing the room which the University has tendered the Club for its use. This is the first time the Club has had a room of its own and it is intended to use the room to make the social features of the Club most interesting. The duties of the Executive Committee were extended to cover entertainment. A club pin was decided upon; three new members elected and a yell committee appointed to design something new to be sprung at the big games.

Place your order now for next week's Hatchet. It will contain the only authorized and complete collection of the University's songs and yells ever compiled. The edition will be limited. First come, first served.

Tailoring Headquarters For College Men

GILBERT

925 F Street N. W.

In point of merchandise, variety of styles of dependable character, value for price, and liberality to customers, we have determined that no store shall surpass us.

If you have never tried a GILBERT tailored suit, the amount of smart tailoring, fit, and correct style in one of our $25 or $30 suits will be a revelation to you.

Stop in and find out more about them. You incur no obligation, whatsoever, by viewing them, and, whether you buy or not, you are likely to get an idea or suggestion that will at some future time be of value to you.

DENTAL.

About one-half of the Senior Class attended the "Belasco" on Monday night to see "Brown of Harvard." We understand that our class turned out the largest delegation of any in the Medical and Dental departments.

At a meeting of the Senior Class last week the subject of a class pin was taken up, and a committee appointed as to designs and estimates. Other matters, including the infirmary, were also discussed.

We are in hopes that the matter of some new stools for the laboratory will soon be settled.

DIET FOR EVERY MAN.

Jam—for car conductors.
Cereals—for novelists.
Mince meat—for autoists.
Beets—for policemen.
Saratoga chips—for gamblers.
Pi—for printers.
Corn—for chiropodists.
Starch—for henpecked husbands.
Gumdrops—for dentists.
Taffy—for after-dinner speakers.
Dough—for insurance presidents.

An examination in Materia Medica for conditioned Dental and Medical students was held in Hall No. 1 on Wednesday night, October 30th. Both classes were well represented. This is always an event which is looked forward to with pleasure (?) by those taking part, and a very enjoyable evening was spent, according to an eye witness. Some of us have already arrived at the conclusion that burning copper backings is the easiest act ever.

Our boys are doing some tall hustling to get in as much infirmary work as possible in the limited amount of time we have to spare. A good many desirable patients are lost because of the inconvenience of climbing the long flights of stairs to reach the infirmary. A small outlay for elevator service for the accommodation of infirmary patients would mean much, both in the way of increased activity in the infirmary and in maintaining the reputation of the University for fair and courteous treatment to all coming in touch with it at all times. It is hoped that the faculty will give this matter the attention it deserves and that steps will soon be taken to relieve the situation.

EDITOR:

Seniors, '08, M. A. Posen.

ASSISTANT EDITORS:

Miss Irene Richardson, '09;
Freshmen, '10, J. D. Hogan.

GENERAL.

We desire every student in the N. C. P. to take a look at the Bulletin Board and give heed to what is inscribed thereon. The success of this department of The Hatchet depends upon the way in which you respond to the call which we make upon you for assistance. So let's get busy! and let us do it now!

There is considerable talk of a Pharmacy smoker to include members of all classes and to be held during the Christmas holidays. Such an event would be a very enjoyable function and the first of its kind in the history of the school. We sincerely hope that it is successfully arranged.

The organization of a "Frat." is another subject which is attracting considerable attention.

SENIORS '08

Prof. Kalusowski's lecture on Sugars and Fermentation was one of the most interesting and instructive discourses we have ever heard. The Enzyme theory of fermentation was especially interesting to us. It really seems very plausible and explains many phenomena which have always caused confusion and discussion as to their causes. The subject is one which is not very well handled in text-books. But Prof. Kalusowski treated it in his usual clear and entertaining manner, and the lecture was very much appreciated by all.

Prof. Waggaman says that he cannot expect to teach some of us how to write funny squibs for The Hatchet, but thinks that a few pointers on Botany, Materia Medica and Toxicology might "help some" for the final exams. next June.

The Seniors are developing "characteristic" signatures as a result of the course in Mercantile Pharmacy. Prof. Williams wishes it understood, however, that "characteristic" and "illegible" are not synonymous.

Organic Chemistry, under Prof. Hillebrand's instruction, is bound to prove interesting. Timberlake says "Organic Chemistry is beautiful!" He ought to know!

The Senior Moustache (false) Club is contemplating having a group picture taken soon. Let us hope the plate won't break.

W. R. Boyer, '08, returned to his home, Damascus, Md., Nov. 5, to help elect Governor and other officials of his native State and county. While there he attended the marriage of W. S. Souder, an ex-classmate of ours, to Miss Cora E. Boyer. He spent the day with his parents and returned the following morning laden with chestnuts, pumpkin pies and other country delicacies. All of us join in wishing Souder a very happy voyage on the matrimonial sea.

A CHEMICAL WEDDING.

A wedding of interest to all lovers of chemistry was solemnized recently when Miss Ann Hydride became the bride of Mr. Al. Uminium. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Nickelous Nitrate. The best man was Mr. A. R. Senic and the bridesmaids were the Misses Mol. E. Cule, Ann T.

Mony, Ethyl Chloride and Ruth Enium.

Mr. Al. Cohol and Mr. Hy. Drogen were the head ushers.

JUNIORS '09

It is rumored that certain well-known members of the Junior Class were seen at the G. W. U.-M. A. C. game lustily using their lungs in support of the G. W. U. team. That's the stuff, boys! Keep it up!

Although we have been in this school for over a year some of us are yet unacquainted with each other. Well, here we are! Let's get acquainted.

Bailey—The future president of the N. C. P.

Bury—So shy of the girls.

Gill—The skating expert.

Harbaugh—"Shorty," the "lightweight champion" of '09.

Hughes—Prof. Kalusowski's successor in Pharmacy.

Jones, T. Q.—"Doc," who makes dope pills for the D. C. militia.

Jones, W. S.—Strictly business. Milburn—The only registered man in his class.

Nolan—The man who is always late.

Payne, E. V.—The Prodigal son.

Payne, D. B.—Not E. V.'s brother, as Dan is in for all fun and no work.

Reese—The ladies' man.

Robey—The chemist.

Salb—The "baby" athlete.

Senay—The "Leader of Fashion" is he.

Tewksbury—Last of the boys, but not least, as he is president of his class, and

Irene Richardson, "Nuf ced."

FRESHMEN '10

The Class of '10 is finding the College course so easy (?) that members have time to compose ditties, jingles, etc. The following is a seasonable one by "J. D.":

You're off the track,
You'd better go back,
The game's nearly won,
So order your hack,
Pick up and pack,
You boys from Georgetown.

CHORUS:

Lickety cuss, lickety cuss,
What the mischief's the matter with us,
Nothing at all, nothing at all,
We're the boys who can play football.

Moral: Don't forget that the Georgetown game is not far off.

LAW

The time for the holding of class smokers in the University is approaching. In the Law Department the Senior Class will lead off within a fortnight with its annual class smoker, and this will probably be followed by similar functions in the other classes of the Law Department. The question at once arises, shall we have liquor served at these social functions, or can we hold these otherwise enjoyable class affairs without beer?

Mr. C. W. Tenney, formerly president of the Montana Wesleyan University, who has had conferred upon him the Draper scholarship and is at present studying in The College of the Political Sciences in our University, is well qualified to write on this important subject. It is hoped, therefore, that the following argument by Mr. Tenney will be carefully read by every student in the Law Department:

SHALL LIQUOR BE SERVED AT OUR CLASS AND OTHER SOCIAL FUNCTIONS?

The writer of this article wishes it to be understood that he is not opposed to "frats" or other student organizations, but is proud of the fact that he is a member of Phi Delta Phi and that the first social courtesy after he came to Washington was an invitation to feel at home at the K St. Chapter House. The negative is taken for the following reasons:

The highest privilege of a man, especially of a college man, is to do his own thinking and to live in accordance with his own convictions. Class functions are meant for each and every fellow in the class and, if liquor is served, one of three things will result. Some of the men will be kept from the meeting; they will attend and serve as "wall flowers," because they cannot conscientiously participate; or in the last case, surrender the best part of their manhood, conviction and follow the line of least resistance.

It is not necessary to the success of such a function. Odd Fellowship, with its more than a million men, has proven this and the average man who is a member of this as well as a number of other lodges that "raise things high," will tell you the reason he loves dear old I. O. O. F. best of all is because every man in it can be a full-fledged, participating member without giving up the teachings of home or feeling strange and queer and lonely.

It hurts the College and hurts the influence of college men. There has been much discussion of late years on the question, "Does a college education pay?" The main trouble is that when men go away to attend college, the home folks expect them to come back better men—men with higher ideals—and when they find that these higher ideals of which they dreamed are grouped around a "bull dog, a big black pipe, and a stein of beer," they are disappointed. The business men say, "None of that for me." The school men say, "The teacher we hire must have the right kind of an example as well as the knowledge of books," and saddest of all, the "jolly, good fellow" finds that he must adjust his ways of living, or he is handicapped in the very race for which he has been preparing himself.

In the last place, the use of liquor at these functions is not necessary to make us men or to gain us the good will of men. The attributes of manhood are strength, courage, honesty, and no greater travesty on these can be imagined than to see a man, a College man, participating in things his heart tells him are wrong for fear of the laugh of "mother's apron string," or social ostracism. In actual life a knowledge of the cup is not necessary. The short experience of the writer has taught him that without it he could be regarded as a man in the lumber camps of the coast, by the fishermen of the Columbia river, by the threshing crews of the grain fields of Washington state, by the surveying crews of Uncle Sam's unclaimed domain, by the Indians on the reservation, by the miners of Butte, and the "broncho busters" of Montana, so he hopes that neither he nor any other man far from home will be obliged to acquire it in our Capital City, in George Washington University, or in any class or organization of college men in order to have a place and to feel at home.

UNIVERSITY CONGRESS.

The University Congress was called to order at 8 p. m. by Mr. Taylor, of Illinois, speaker.

Mr. Sunderlin, of Nebraska, was elected to serve as clerk the ensuing two weeks, and as speaker the subsequent two weeks.

House Resolution No. 115 was adopted for discussion next Saturday evening. The bill reads: "Resolved by the University Congress in session assembled, that women qualified as citizens of the United States should be allowed to vote in National elections."

Mr. Steele, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Heinbeck, of Illinois, volunteered to lead the debate for the affirmative; Mr. Holmes, of Missouri, and Mr. Ombrase, of Montana, volunteered to speak on the negative.

House Resolution No. 113, providing for the repeal of the second section of the 14th Amendment was placed upon its final passage. Mr. Sunderlin, of Nebraska, made the opening address in favor of the resolution. His address was strong, vigorous and full of strong points; Mr. Durham, of Nebraska, spoke forcefully for the negative, and made a strong appeal to the good sense of the people of America to stand by the Constitution of the United States, after which, under the three minute rule, a large number spoke, and assaulted the respective sides until the hour arrived for the closing speeches. Mr. Mueller, of Ohio, made the closing argument in favor of the bill, and Mr. Heinbeck, of Illinois, made an impassioned speech in closing for the negative.

The resolution, being placed upon its final passage, was carried by a two-thirds vote, after considerable dilatory practice.

F. R. TRAVEL, Clerk.

The work of Brigadier General Henry L. Abbot, Professor of Hydraulic Engineering, on the "Problems of the Panama Canal," (The Macmillan Company, 1907) has attracted considerable attention and a second edition was published a few months ago. The Scientific American, August 24, 1907, speaks of it as follows: "Brigadier General Henry L. Abbot, who was for seven years connected with the work in question, has written of the problems of the canal in a manner that deserves the highest commendation. His book is a minute and painstaking description of every detail of the great labor with full tables of statistics in every department of the work, yet so remarkably is the subject matter composed that the interest to the casual reader is not destroyed. The engineer in search of exact information, and the layman wishing for general information will both find it equally interesting."

Messrs. G. P. Putnam's Sons have recently published a textbook on Plain and Spherical Trigonometry, by Professor J. Howard Gore, head of the mathematical department of the University. Although issued but a few weeks ago, the first edition has already been exhausted.

George Horton, Esq., Consul General of the United States to Greece, who is a Doctor of Letters of this University, is now on leave of absence in this country and is on a lecture tour for the Archaeological Institute of America. The subject of his lecture is "The Greeks of Today." Dr. Horton will address the Washington Society of the Institute on November 20.

W. F. R. PHILLIPS, Dean.
November 2nd, 1907.

At last the Senior Medics have elected their officers for the ensuing year.

Politics in the class have been rather animated since the opening of the school year, but this is not to be wondered at, as it is a "Class of Politicians."

The following officers were elected:

Harry M. Taylor, President.
Andrew J. Browning, Vice-President.
Joseph Wilhelm, Secretary.
Herbert S. Pyne, Treasurer.
John R. Littlefield, Class Editor.
Fred S. Avery, Prophet.

Committees were appointed to make arrangements for a class smoker to be held in the near future; and to secure a design for a class pin.

Our old friend "Red" Hargan is doing things again; foolish things as usual.

The brothers are permitting "Red" to live in his Fraternity house and insist upon him acting as chairman of the house committee.

Several days ago two tons of coal was delivered to the house and it became "Red's" duty to instruct the driver where to place the coal.

"Red" opened the window and illuminated 19th St. just enough for the driver to find the manhole of a large sewer which "Red" pointed out to him as the proper place for the coal; and returned to bed to sleep just long enough to be late to the morning lecture, and wondering at the coal driver's stupidity.

"Red" was awakened shortly afterwards by the housekeeper and told that the load of coal was in the sewer, and since then his disposition has not been quite so sunny.

Dr. Chas. S. White has commenced his course of Lectures on surgery to the class, and it promises to be the most interesting course we have received. He is illustrating his lecture with reproductions from "Deaver's Surgical Anatomy," "Fowler's Surgery," and several other books noted for their good cuts.

"As dry as a bone" is an old expression and a true one when it comes to the study of a bone, but the Seniors are now congratulating themselves that one of their Profs. is capable of handling a subject which deals considerably with bones—and crooked bones at that—and make an extremely interesting course of it.

Dr. A. R. Shands is the Prof. and he always has a full attendance at his lecture.

We note that Billy Tewksbury still "hikes" up F St. and Taylor still says he is afraid he won't "get through."

Brown continues to get up at 2:30 a. m. to study, and Garnett never comes to morning lecture on time; MacKnight is still trying to memorize "Osler," and Sherwood is always on the lookout for "reasonable propositions."

'09 Juniors

W. P. Wood, Class Editor

The Class Editor recently had an interesting chat with Lind, our class wit, on current events. During the conversation he said, "Everything is 'high nowadays, even the people are traveling in balloons. If the price of milk continues to rise, poor pussy will have to be chloroformed."

The class sweaters have arrived and they look very nifty. The insignia, consisting as it does of the caduceus and class numerals, is distinctive of the Medical Department.

All hopes of a Sophomore-Freshman football games have vanished. Where they have gone, the Lord only knows, but it is certain that they have went. And the sorrow among the Juniors and Seniors who hoped to see a lively contest. Oh, grief! Oh, grief!

Our classmate, R. L. Powell, was drowned in his own home last night. Shortly after he had retired he fell through the mattress into the springs. Sad, indeed.

HOSPITAL NOTES.

By O. Liver Smyth.

IMPORTANT.

An examination for the position of Interne at Emergency Hospital will be held at that Institution on Monday evening, November 11th. For general Medical and Surgical training, Emergency is THE place; so it's up to you graduates to get busy and keep those Georgetown Medics on the other side of the creek.

Willis, '09, is still doing noble work at Sibley.

Clark, '09, of Garfield and of fairly good height is growing "down;" have you noticed his attempt?

Every one will be sorry to hear of the departure from Emergency of Dear Dick (or properly speaking Dr. Dick Dear.)

Dick is a U. of P. man, but notwithstanding that fact is well known to most of the boys. There are not many who haven't heard of his famous "Christian Kick," la Boheme, which he did to perfection at a certain Fraternity smoker last winter.

Among other accomplishments, Dick holds the Copper tank sprint record at Luny Park and has earned (honestly, it may be said) the soubriquet of Romeo by his aversion to the fair sex.

Many a damsel owes her existence to his three-minute "hurry calls" at 3 a. m. This accounts for the great number of floral designs being received this week at Emergency.

The world of fashion has its eyes on Dr. Littlefield's new Krupper-heimer. Yes, Maud; it was made to order. Why shouldn't it fit him well?

Charters, '09, has resigned from Providence for work in a larger field. Now this doesn't mean he has gone to pasture.

Lawrence, '08, reports things quiet at Columbia.

Quick, '08, at George Washington, says ditto, and the office has yet to hear from Tewksbury, of Soldiers' Home. Our field correspondents will be heard from later.

Dr. Waring is still using Joe Miller's joke book with great success (?). He has just been invited by Gallaudet to give a heart to lung talk next Sunday evening. Poor John! Poor John!

Have you all observed Dr. John Ramsey Littlefield's new raincoat? It's great; a genuine Krupper-heimer; made to order. Why shouldn't it look good on him?

Dr. Glenn Jones has joined the Benedicts, and judging by his facial expression, he has made no mistake. Best wishes, Jonesey, old boy.

Now that Hospital work for the Seniors has begun it may be apropos to suggest to them the advisability of cutting out their attendance at Cliniques de Montrose held by Professor Grieb, the noted micologist.

Sheep '06, Darnall '07 and Willets '07 represent George Washington at St. Elizabeth's Asylum and are taking an active part in the weekly medical discussions on Psychiatry and Psychology.

Maryland Defeated.

Couden and Hooten played the game to the limit, the whole team, in fact, deserving all the credit that is bound to come their way. Our defense, especially, was a pleasure to watch, for Maryland could do nothing either in the line or around the ends.

All the scoring was done in the first half, Witten, for George Washington, kicking two pretty goals from touchdowns. The ball was always in Maryland's territory in the latter part of the game, and right on their goal at that. Witten missed a goal from placement by 20 feet, after making a fair catch. The new quarter, who went in towards the end, played an exceptionally fast game, putting up some noticeable interference work.

For the details our readers are referred to the daily papers, inasmuch as, for lack of time, The Hatchet finds it impossible to do more than publish these general statements.

TROUBLE WITH GEORGETOWN.

Those who followed the newspapers, last week, are probably aware of the disagreement which has arisen as regards the receipts of the Georgetown-George Washington game.

The situation, at this time of writing, remains practically the same, although Graduate Manager Wilson and Manager Fitzgerald of the Georgetown team have had a meeting and have something up their sleeves.

Georgetown's actions in this matter appear somewhat suspicious, to say the least. About a week ago they announced that George Washington would have to be content with 40 per cent of the gate receipts in the annual game, win or lose. The usual division had been 50 per cent to each, and the demand of Georgetown created an overwhelming surprise, coming as it did immediately before the final arrangements. Manager Fitzgerald's claim was that we should pay the cost of some new bleachers, which have been erected within their enclosure, although none of the other teams that are to play at Georgetown were likewise taxed, and George Washington's compliance had not been secured.

At first glance, this demand takes the appearance of a veritable holdup. Its evident injustice is too apparent to comment upon, and becomes absolutely inane when it is remembered that Georgetown students have always had the advantage of athletic association rates, while every one of our rooters has been compelled to pay $1 in Uncle Sam's coin. In addition, George Washington was willing to play at American League Park, to which Georgetown refused to consent.

Not only, however, did Manager Fitzgerald persist in his course, but even made overtures to Bucknell for Thanksgiving, thereby freezing us out, as it were. If Georgetown thought that we were entirely dependent, they found themselves disagreeably mistaken. For, in the event Georgetown refuses to do the right thing, George Washington students may rest confident that our team will have a game on Thanksgiving, and with an eleven well worth seeing.

The trouble became a little more complicated when an agreement was discovered, during the week, by which the two Colleges had agreed, in 1905, to play three games. As only two of these have taken place, Georgetown is morally bound to play the third, under previous conditions. It is believed that the general body of students from across the creek are not in accord with the actions of their football manager. In fact, it is difficult to see how they could consistently be so, for, in case the game should not be played, the prevalent opinion would undoubtedly be that Georgetown was a little timid in meeting us. Along this line, the fact that Georgetown was defeated at Fordham by a score of 36 to 0, may or may not have weight.

TRACK TEAM ELECTION.

At a meeting of the track team, Thursday evening, W. D. Gill was elected captain. Gill is well known as consistent, distance man, and has represented the University repeatedly in such events. The call for track men has not officially been made, in as much as it would conflict with football. Readers of The Hatchet will be informed, in a later issue, of the prospects and plans of the track team for the ensuing year.

The Hatchet must apologize for its negligence in failing to print the names of the track and basketball winners of the letter, and does so now more as a matter of record than of news.

Track team—Fleming, Lorando, Gunning, Gill, Sterrett, Brooks, and Turkenton.

Basketball team—Johnson, Covell, Egleberner, Whiting, Newhouser, Wood and Duffy.

What insignia the basketball men will be entitled to wear is still a matter of doubt.

The rules governing the award of the letter to the track men are rather restrictive, for an athlete must win his event from scratch, or must make ten points in a scholastic year, or must be a member of a winning relay in a race with another college. It is hoped that the athletic council will see fit to lighten the conditions, in order to make track athletics more inviting.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP.

Coach Melick of M. A. C. and Coach Neilson were classmates at the University of Nebraska. A pleasing tribute to the latter's system was seen in the fact that M. A. C. had practically the same plays and formation as last year, when Neilson was there.

Little mention has been made of the scrubs, but their steady, consistent work deserves a good bit of praise. Kemeys has been transferred to the varsity as sub-full. Woods, the scrub quarter, has kept the men on the jump in every scrimmage, and has caused the varsity some trouble by his trick plays.

A new man has made his appearance at Van Ness Park, who exhibits the ear-marks of a first-class quarter. It is hoped that he can be counted upon as a regular.

The West Point-Navy game should be a sight for the gods. Both teams have proved their worth. West Point's experience will probably be the deciding factor.

COMING TO THE THEATERS.

A feature of "The Orchid," in which Eddie Foy will shortly appear at the Belasco Theater, is the dancing of La Petite Adelaide and a group described as "sizzling broilers."

A. H. Woods, in his latest production, "The Great Express Robbery," by Owen Davis, which is the attraction at the New Academy, week of November 11, has introduced a novelty. In the last scene of the third act, two horses make a plunge from an elevation of 25 feet into a large tank. This newest of thrillers with all of its scenes laid in the Golden West is interpreted by a capable cast.

"Nell Gwynne," a story of the days of Charles II (the merry monarch), will be the attraction at the Majestic Theater next week. The King and his cousin, the Duke of Richmond, are suitors for the hand of Frances Stewart. The King has, of course, a great advantage, but by the aid of Nell Gwynne, the actress, the lovers are triumphant, and the King resigns to his rival with a good grace.

Chase's next week will bid for special prominence with a polite vaudeville bill compounded of many brilliant elements, chief among them being All Leech and the Three Rosebuds, in a musical frivolity; Tacianu, the wonderful European vocal phenomenon; Mr. and Mrs. Perkins Fisher, in "The Half Way House;" Unrbani and Son, the foreign equilibrial artists; the Harry La Rose Company, in Will Cressy's "The Sailor and the Horse;" Eleanor Falke, the piquante singing comedienne; Eddie Collins, "the dancing wonder," and the motion pictures, "Purchasing an Automobile."

At the Belasco Theater next week the Shuberts will present "The Girls of Holland," a new comedy opera in three acts. The book and lyrics are by Stanilaus Stange, and the music by Reginald de Koven. The locale of the piece takes place in the cities of Liege and Bruges, Flanders, during the Spanish occupation of the Netherlands in 1687. The plot deals with the love affairs of Alvarez, a Spanish captain; Jan and Max, a young lawyer and physician respectively, of Holland, and Freda, Minna, and Gretel, the three pretty nieces of Frau van Biere, the widow of a wealthy brewer. There are 30 musical numbers which include "Sabot Dance," "Captain Cupid," "Could You Love Me," "The Trombone Beats the Band," "Oh, Boy," "My A1 Time Girl," "The Joy of a Kiss," and "Serenade d'Amour." The cast includes Harry Macdonough, Edward M. Favor, Karl Stall, Henry Vogel, Vera Michelena, Carrie Perkins, Ellen Tate, Louise Montague, Leona Stephens, and a chorus of 50.

PROF. A. MESSINEO

Nat. C. Goodwin's present tour in a repertoire of his most popular plays is said to be the most successful he has ever enjoyed. He is reported to be in better health than he has been in for several seasons, and that the dash and sparkle of a few years ago returned to him, enhanced and enriched, by his experience in legitimate and serious work. He is sure to receive a warm welcome at the Columbia next week, where he will be seen in Augustus Thomas's greatest play, "In Mizzoura," and later in "An American Citizen" and "A Gilded Fool." In addition to Miss Edna Goodrich, the beautiful young actress who plays all the leading female roles in Mr. Goodwin's plays, the company comprises Harrington Reynolds, Henry Bergman, Neil O'Brien, H. G. Lonsdale, M. B. Snyder, A. Hylton Allen, W. D. Turner, Francis Conlan, Miss Zeffie Tilbury, Miss Alice Butler, Miss Oza Waldrop, Miss Rose Snyder, Miss Rene Kelley, Miss Helen King, Miss Adelaide Stedman, Miss Harriet Miller, and Miss Pauline Lord.

The registration of the Division of Education up to date is 45. In addition to this there are six graduate students taking courses in education. When we remember that the greatest things spring from the lowliest beginnings these figures are by no means discouraging.
